Overview

Preventing violence at our institutions has become a top priority for public safety officials. The Threat Assessment Team is a pro-active approach to managing situations that pose, or may reasonably pose, a threat to the health, safety, and well-being of our campus community. Through a proactive, collaborate, organized and objective approach, the Threat Assessment Team is able to identify, assess, intervene, and manage disruptive or threatening situations to community members. The threat assessment process encourages early intervention to help manage those individuals whose behaviors potentially impede their own or other's ability to function successfully and safely.

Although there is not an official model for threat assessment, experts have identified common components of effective threat assessment procedures. We will look at three types of institutions (large public sworn, small private non-sworn, and community college) to discover how their teams are made up and what their challenges and successes are. A follow-up period with a question and answer session will complete the program.
